

Snyder County 250th Heritage Day Celebration

By Kay Poeth

Speakers in the Opening Ceremony of the Snyder County 250th Heritage Day Celebration included (front) Rylan Ebright, Chairperson of America250PA-Snyder County; President Judge Lori Hackenberg; Elizabeth Canfield, Legislative Aide for Rep. David Rowe; Snyder County Commissioner Adam Ewig; Snyder County Commissioner Joe Kantz; Deborah Kline; (back row) Judge Michael Piccuch; Matthew Hunsberger-Vocalist; Pastor Denny Malone and Snyder County Chuck Steininger. (Missing from photo is Sen. Lynda Culver.)

Beverly Malone wrote an historical skit, "Women of the Revolution." Portraying Betty Ross was Linda Wagner. Bringing Molly Pitcher to life was Debra Tyson, and stepping into the shoes of Abigail Adams was Connie Boonie. Bev Malone was the narrator.

Snyder County Longhunters Austin Landis and Alex Wolf set up a frontier encampment during the Snyder County 250th Heritage Day Celebration.

America250PA- Snyder County hosted its Snyder County 250th Heritage Day Celebration to honor 250 years of the United States. Held at the Middleburg Carnival Grounds, the Flag Day Weekend event was a show of patriotism, history, community, and celebration. The Opening Ceremony began with the Presentation of Colors by the Middlecreek Color Guard consisting of Lew Briggs, Bruce Phelps, Bob Straub, and Terry Polan. Local dignitaries spoke about history, traditions, and our Nation's journey. Matthew Hunsberger performed the National Anthem and Deb Kline led the Pledge of Allegiance. Pastor Denny Malone offered a prayer thanking God for "the vision and sacrifices of our founders whom you used to give us this great nation in which we live." Greg Hood performed a touching rendition of Amazing Grace on the bagpipe. Several of the speakers invited the audience to join them in singing, America the Beautiful. Local dignitaries and legislative representative addressed the gathering. Snyder County Commissioner Chuck Steininger stated, "Our local heritage is something to be deeply cherished. It lives on in our historical sites, our community traditions, and even custom pieces of patriotic pride, like the county's own America250 bell, that honors our rich legacy." Commissioner Joe Kantz commented about celebrating not only the past, but looking to the future. "As Americans, we must draw from our past and learn to stand strong in our continued fight for freedom. As evil lurks around the corner, we think back to the very first settlers of our land and recall the motivation they had to escape tyranny and pursue liberty." President Judge Lori Hackenberg and Judge Michael Piccuch presented judicial remarks. In her address Judge Hackenberg emphasized that our government "endures because each generation produces citizens who are willing to understand it, take it seriously, defend it, and live it out." She challenged the audience by saying, "Let us not simply commemorate history. Let us renew our commitment to it. Let us recommit ourselves to the responsibilities that accompany freedom. Let us remain informed citizens. Let us engage in our communities. Let us protect our institutions. Let us teach the next generation not only what America is, but why America is."

Judge Piccuch noted that Americans are united by our shared liberties and opportunities. "Let's remember that the American experiment is a gift entrusted to every single one of us. It is up to us to protect our freedoms, to care for our neighbors, and to continue writing the story of America with courage inspired by our founders and Creator."

Legislative remarks were given by Elizabeth Canfield, Legislative Aide to Rep. David Rowe, and State Sen. Lynda Schlegel Culver. Canfield emphasized the small things that make our Nation great. "Courage when others are fearful, independence when others are dependent, and hard work when others seek ease," and "neighbors still help out neighbors." She also noted, "We are great because parents still teach their children the difference between right and wrong." She also stated, "We are not great because we only focus on big things, I believe we are great because the small things still matter. Faith in Freedom. Faith in personal responsibility. Faith in our future. Faith in God."

Freeburg Residents Invited to Public Meeting on Impact of Solar Farm on Water Supply

By Kay Poeth

On Monday, June 29 at 7 pm, the Freeburg Municipal Authority and the Freeburg Borough Council will hold an informational meeting at the Freeburg Community Center to update residents on the corporate-owned solar farm being built near their water supply. They encourage at least one resident from each household to attend the meeting.

Brookfield Renewable received approval to install two separate solar farm projects in Washington Township. The Borough was not included in the discussion or the approval of the project.

Freeburg Borough and residents are concerned about the installation around the water treatment facility and two wells in the same area basin. Short-term concerns center around storms and storm water drainage and the possibility of contamination. Any contamination would affect water for the entire community.

Freeburg Council President Catherine Dent noted, “The location is a potential danger to the homes of 700 people.” The solar farms will encompass 323 acres in Washington Township. Long-term fears are about the effects as the materials age and break down.

According to Dent, one option to allay those fears would be for the Borough to obtain a bond from Brookfield Renewable. The bond would protect the Borough in the event that their water source becomes contaminated due to the solar installation.

Residents are urged to attend the June 29 meeting at 7 pm and bring their questions and raise their concerns.

Snyder County 250th Heritage Day Celebration

Senator Lynda Schlegel Culver noted that America 250 is not just about the past but “It is also about the local stories, the small towns, the boroughs, the families and the communities that helped shape Pennsylvania and the United States.”

“Our communities have always been shaped by people who show up for one another, preserve local history, support local traditions and pass those values on to the next generation.”

Sen. Culver also pointed out that Pennsylvania is the birthplace of American democracy and stands at the heart of our Nation’s story and this milestone celebration is also about “reflecting on the values that continue to shape us and recommitting ourselves to the work of building strong communities for the next generation.”

Alex Wolf of the Snyder County Long hunters read a list 103 names of county residents who served in the Revolutionary War. He and Austin Landis also set up a rustic frontier encampment near the lake and worked on period canoe.

Finally, Beverly Malone gathered information on historical characters and created biographical skits to portray the importance of women in the founding of our country, “Women of the Revolution.” Portraying Betsy Ross was Linda Wagner. Bringing Molly Pitcher to life was Debra Tyson, and stepping into the shoes of Abigail Adams was Connie Boonic. Bev Malone was the narrator.

In the early evening, the band Bella Donna performed on stage leading up to the fireworks. Heritage Day concluded with a spectacular fireworks display, presented by White-night Fireworks, had a synchronized soundtrack provided by 94KX.

“This weekend marked the culmination of the America-250PA-Snyder County Committee’s efforts to celebrate the 250th anniversary of the United States,” said Rylan Ebright, Chairperson of America250PA-Snyder County. I am grateful to the elected officials, community leaders, and local dignitaries who participated in these events. As we honor our nation’s history, we are reminded that the values, sacrifices, and achievements of the past continue to shape and strengthen our future.”

USAC EASTERN STORM GOT FIVE OF THERE SIX RACES IN, OHIO 410-SPRINT SPEEDWEEK GOT SIX OF EIGHT RACES IN

The USAC Eastern Storm in its 19th year of having the national touring series came to the east coast, bringing the excitement of the wingless 410-sprint cars to seven different tracks for a week full of racing. Briggs Danner, the young driver from Allentown, driving the Tim Houge #39 is what most fans wanted to see in victory lane, and he was able to do it twice at Bridgeport speedway and the final night last Sunday at Kutztown known as the action track. In between Mitchell Moles also scored two wins, one at Big Diamond and at Williams Grove, Kyle Cummins won the other race at Grandview speedway. Had a talk with Briggs Danner at Big Diamond who at that point knew he should have had two wins already, spinning out late in the race while battling for the lead with Kyle Cummins. Briggs who has four touring wins this year on the circuit and seven overall in two years with the series. Briggs also talked about his late model racing he drives the Superko #31 when it fits his busy schedule. Briggs drove in the last Speedweek race at Lincoln Speedway and placed fifth at the finish. He plans to race the #31 on July 17th at Path Valley in a ULMS series race paying $6,000 to win, which is what the USAC series races pay to win. Danner was hoping to race the next night at Hagerstown, but an early commitment to drive a USAC Champ car will keep from racing at Hagerstown. The final Eastern storm race at Kutztown had three drivers in contention for the Storm crown Mitch Moles, Brady Bacon and Kyle Cummins. Moles had early trouble in the feature but did come back for an eight-place finish, that was not good enough for the title, then during later in the Brady Bacon got into a wreck and was done for the night putting out of the title hunt. Kyle Cummins came home in the feature in second place and earned the title by two points, over Mitchel Moles, with Justin Grant, Briggs Danner and Brady Bacon in the top five. Port Royal lost a hard-fought battle with the weather man on Saturday night after numerous attempts to get the program in they were forced to pull the plug on the race which drew a field of 26 USAC sprints and 18 Crown Champ cars.

The Ohio 410-sprint Speedweek got six of the eight events run with five different winners in the six races. Tracks involved in the series Wayne County with two races, Attica, Sharon, Waynesfield, Fremont, two races were rained out at Eldora and Millstream. Zeth Sabo of Tiffin Ohio won two races, with single wins going to Craig Mintz, Kalib Henry, Chris Andrews, and Cap Henry. Gettysburg driver Danny Dietrich ran the whole series which he has done the past few seasons, Danny had finishes of six four times fourth, and a tenth, which put him in third in the final week of racing points standings. Cap Henry of Republic won the points tile by ten points over Kalib Henry of Sacramento CA 931-921. Dietrich was twelve back 919 then came Bryce Lucius who is now driving the other Mike Heffner #27 was fourth 28 back with 903 and Zeth Sabo 59 back at 872 80-drivers participated in at least one event, which had Cameron Smith of Spring Grove now in the Jacob Allen #1A. The rest of the top ten looked like this Darin Naida of Adrian Ohio, Cale Thomas of Fairland IN, Ryan Newton of Sunshine Coast ON, Newton races mostly with the PA Posse while he is racing in the United States, Trey Jacobs Wooster Ohio and Zane DeVault of Plymouth IN in tenth. The ALL-STAR series which again sanctioned the OHIO Speedweek will be off until July 31st for their next series race at Hartford Speedway in the state of Michigan. Kalib Henry led the points there with 498 by 34 over Cale Thomas, Bryce Lucius, Cap Henry and Zane DeVault.

Starting this Friday the Pennsylvania sprint car Speedweek for 410-sprints kicks off at Williams Grove, which will feature ten races in ten days at seven different speedways, Lincoln Speedway which will have two races along with Williams Grove and Port Royal. Single events are set for BAPS, Grandview, Hagerstown and the final on July 6th at Selinsgrove speedway. There will be four races paying $10,000 to win at Williams Grove first race also for Lincoln's first race at Port Royal first race and Grandview. Three paying $12,000 to win one each BAPS, Hagerstown and Selinsgrove. One race will pay $15,000 to win at Port Royal second race on Saturday July 4th, one for $20,000 at Williams Grove second race, and one for $5000 at Lincoln speedway for their second race on Monday June 29th, the event to honor Steve Smith Jr. In the 2025 season seven races were completed with three events rained out, Last Year's winners were Danny Dietrich twice with single wins going to Freddie Rahmer, Kyle Larson who won at Hagerstown, Lance Dewease, Chase Dietz, and Anthony Macri who won at Port Royal and was the series overall points champion. Chase Dietz is coming off a win at Path Valley on Sunday and looks to be the favorite to win the title in the Stehman #23, also in the hunt will be Danny Dietrich, Freddie Rahmer, Troy Wagaman Jr, Macri is still on the injured list and will not be back to defend his title the way things look now. Quite an event at BAPS speedway last Saturday night where they held a Silver Springs throwback night, with a great crowd on and plenty of race cars. Springs, which closed after the 2005 racing season, had many years of plenty of race cars and fans in their racing days, with number of years charging only five dollars to get in and later it was only six to get in when they closed. They would get fields of 60-super sportsman 30 some limited late models and 30 some street stocks. For this first time special they drew 30-super sportsman 30-limited late models and 22-street stock, along with close to 30 vintage racecars on hand. A good number of former car owners' mechanics and drivers were inducted into the Hall of Fame. Long time race and a driver who got his career started Frankie Herr won the Sportsman feature in his 39th year of racing. Scott Palmer, who is his third limited and eight career limited late model feature over Daulton Bigler whose grandfather Kenny Riland raced at the sprints and is Bigler's crew chief.

Last Friday at Selinsgrove speedway Gregg Satterlee drove to his fourth feature win in five races in the super late model feature this year; Rick Eckert gave chase, with Hayes Mattern, Dylan Yoder and Jeff Rine in the top five. In the limited late model feature Shaun Miller made it two in row in the feature with Jaxton Gasman Ryan Zook, George Dixon and Casey Steinhoff giving chase. Shaun Miller's dad Troy went out and won his second street stock feature on the year, making it a great family night for the Miller Family. Jason Geesaman was second. This Saturday Selinsgrove will present Kids Nite with a solid number of prizes for the kids. Racing will have the super late models, Street Stocks and the east Coast 360-singles sprints for the three divisions show. In the late models can anyone stop Gregg Satterlee who only lost this year was when he dropped out of the WOO series race while running in the seventh spot. Christian Bruno has won the first two East Coast sprint car feature can he keep things going in that division. Street Stock winners so far this year have been Troy Miller with two Jason Geesaman, Brando Moser each with one.

Beaver Springs Dragway Brings Back Friday Night Street Racing

By Debbie Gastelu

Rocky Pirrone will be racing his nostalgia Funny Car on July 4th during the 23rd Annual Nostalgia Nationals weekend.

Back on June 5th, Friday Night Street Racing emerged from a 3-year hiatus and what a wonderful turnout there was. "We wanted to bring back a family friendly and affordable night of racing to the community," said promoter Mikey McCracken.

3 more Friday night dates are planned to offer a great night out offering something where even those who have never raced before can come out and enjoy an evening of experiencing what it feels like going down the 1/4 mile. "We were thrilled to see the turnout on June 5th bringing back racers and fans that haven't been here in a long time" stated Mikey.

Since purchasing the track 9 years ago, Mike and Mikey McCracken had spent every day upgrading the facility to give the racers and fans a place to race and have fun. Mikey and wife Emily have recently taken over the reins of promoting the track and what a better way is to bring back the Friday Night Street racing nights and bring the kids and the entire family to watch their mom and dads take their cars down the track.

Beaver Springs Dragway not only offers a wonderful affordable night out, they also offer a concession stand and BSD Merchandise in their newly stocked goody booth offering more merchandise than they have had before, something for all ages, including infants, toddler, youth and adults.

Where can you go out these days for a mere $10 admission fee and not only that take your car down the 1/4 mile dragstrip for just $5 a pass!!!

The next 3 Friday Night Street racing dates are July 3rd, August 21st and October 23rd.

As an added treat, the July 4th weekend will also be holding the Annual Nostalgia Nationals for the 23rd year in a row. If you are a diehard drag racing fan you won't want to miss going back in time and watching drag cars from years past still racing with the groups such as MANDRA, NETO, East Coast Gassers, Gamblers Race and Back Seat Drivers in competition on July 4th and July 5th. Highlight of the weekend is the Rocky Pirrone funny car on Saturday July 4th. All this for just $15 spectator fee each day on Saturday and Sunday. So, make plans on attending a great weekend of racing. Beaver Springs Dragway has weekly racing and special events all though the year. You can visit their website at www.beaversprings.com and check out the racing schedule or visit their Facebook page. Don't forget to bring the ear plugs!!

Leo Messi is the best soccer player in the world and has been for twenty years. Messi is to soccer what Michael Jordan is to basketball. Leo dribbles a soccer ball like Kyrie Irving does a basketball. He has scored the most career goals ever in the World Cup. Messi just turned 39 years old and this is probably his last World Cup so do yourself a favor and watch him in a game or two.

Cape Verde continues to surprise in the tournament after they stunned Spain with a nil-nil draw in their first World Cup match ever. They played Uruguay to a 2-2 draw and have a legitimate chance to make it into the second round. Stories like this are what catches your attention.

Soccer is a sport I don't follow much or fully understand, but like many of you, I've gotten caught up in this year's World Cup. From watch parties to the fans' passion for their country's teams, I can see why soccer is the world's favorite sport, though it has yet to catch on in the U.S. The extent of my soccer experience was coaching my daughters in AYSO.

Back in 1968 the North American Soccer League (NASL) was formed. The founders predicted soccer would finally take root and rival American football and baseball. It didn't and the NASL ceased operations in 1985.

Following the last time we successfully hosted the World Cup in 1994, pundits and sports economists declared this would be the turning point for soccer in our country. This is when the Major League Soccer (MLS) was created as a primary condition for FIFA awarding the right to America to host the 1994 World Cup.

The MLS has grown from a struggling startup into a stable, highly attended thirty-team league across Canada and the U.S. Will this year's World Cup grow soccer in our country even more? It might for a couple weeks but football and baseball's pennant races will return to dominate our sports landscape.

While the World Cup kicked off the Brendan Sorsby story continued to play out. Sorsby is the QB that transferred to Texas Tech and soon after it was discovered he had bet on over 9,000 football games including over forty he played in. Gambling on a sport you play is the most egregious violation in sports. The NCAA ruled Sorsby ineligible to ever play football in college again.

Three years ago the NCAA suspended Iowa starting defensive tackle Noah Shannon for betting less than $100 on an Iowa women's basketball game. Shannon's football career was over for a small wager on a sport he didn't play. Sorsby bet over $90K on his own sport and many others including Romanian soccer, Turkish basketball and the MLB draft. Sorsby even wagered on Nathan's Hot Dog eating contest.

Sorsby and his lawyer sued the NCAA so he could play his last season before entering the NFL draft. Somehow a local judge ruled in favor of Sorsby playing one last season for Tech. The uproar of disgust reverberated across the entire country. The original local judge only recused himself after it was discovered he was a Texas Tech graduate and football season ticket holder.

Instead, Ken Curry, a local judge and Houston grad from a neighboring county that retired in 2012 was named as the presiding judge to hear the Sorsby lawsuit against the NCAA for reinstatement to play this year. Of interest to note, it has been reported that Judge Curry is a member of the same country club as Cody Campbell.

Cody Campbell is the Texas Tech billionaire, mega-donor whose goal is to elevate Tech athletics to the levels of Oregon with Phil Knight, Indiana with Mark Cuban and Michigan with Larry Page, the founder of Google. Is it a coincidence that Curry was selected and overturned the NCAA decision? The fact Campbell also brought in Texas Attorney General Ken Paxton to the fray makes it even murkier and more questionable.

The Big 12 was ready to penalize their league member Tech and the turmoil throughout the sports world was so much that Sorsby and Texas Tech agreed it would be best for Sorsby to enter the NFL supplemental draft in a month.

The NFL considered Sorsby's case to enter the supplemental draft and denied his opportunity to play in the NFL this fall. In a letter to Sorsby the NFL said "the League retains sole discretion to determine whether it is appropriate to conduct a Supplemental Draft in any given year. Your Petition - filed three business days before the deadline, without any supporting information or documentation, and only after abandoning your recent litigation efforts to avoid NCAA sanctions- does not provide a basis for the League to alter those plans. The issues presented by your Petition are too significant and too closely tied to the League's core integrity interests to permit meaningful review within the timeline presented."

Say hello to the Canadian Football League Brendan. It's a good thing Texas Tech allowed you to keep the $5M they paid you to play this fall.

Staying at the college level and this is purely my speculation - this article is called 'The View from Hear' - Michigan State basketball coach Tom Izzo may retire before this season begins or after this season is over. Izzo is disgusted by the administrative drama at Michigan State that led to the Spartan's president and athletic director each taking the same jobs at two different schools.

"I can't stand what's going on," Izzo told reporters. "I've had it. This is self-inflicted. We just lost the best president to ever be here, maybe.... One of the best. I'm very upset about it and I'm sick of it." Sparty will now be searching for its fourth AD since 2021 and its fourth president since 2022, including interim stints.

Izzo is 71 years old and has been the head coach at Michigan State for thirty years and an assistant there for the previous twelve. It is my belief that when he takes his vacation this summer to the Upper Peninsula of Michigan he will reflect on his career and make a decision to retire.

Coaching contemporaries such as Jim Boeheim, Mike Krzyzewski and Jay Wright all walked away from the college game because of all the changes with recruiting and NIL. Izzo has always been one of my favorite coaches in all sports and college basketball will suffer when he leaves.

Just this Monday, Dusty May walked away as head coach at Michigan to take the coaching job with the Dallas Mavericks in the NBA. This was ten weeks after May led his Wolverines to March Madness and the NCAA basketball championship.

College basketball coaches seldom jump from college to the NBA, and those that did were not too successful. John Calipari, Rick Pitino, Lon Kruger and John Beilein come to mind. Brad Stevens is the outlier in college coaches that prospered in going from a college coach directly to a head coach in the NBA.

With all the changes and chaos in college sports, coaching at the professional level is suddenly more attractive. There is more consistency than college and you pretty much know what your roster is and will be. This is why you are going to see many more coaches go to the professional ranks as college sports become more like the pro level every week without any guardrails.

It is no different in football where there have been a few more coaches that continued their winning ways after they made the jump from college to the NFL, such as Jimmy Johnson, Pete Carroll, Jim Harbaugh and Tom Coughlin. All of these coaches except for Harbaugh won a combined five Super Bowls as head coaches. Harbaugh lost to his brother John in Super Bowl XLVII but will get his Lombardi soon enough.

Coaches that tarnished their coaching legacies after leaving college for the pros include Steve Spurrier, Chip Kelly, Urban Meyer and Kliff Kingsbury. The greatest college coach of all-time had to fail in the NFL before realizing the college game was his to own. Nick Saban won a title at LSU and thought the grass was greener in the NFL. He went 15-17 while coaching the Miami Dolphins for two years before returning to Alabama where he won a record six national championships.

If Saban were fifty years old today, he would coach in the NFL, not in college or even high school as they have gone crazy with players transferring and getting paid. Florida high schools in particular have joined in the transfer madness as there are no rules.

Teens in Florida jump from school to school chasing playing time, winning teams, connected coaches and anything else that might put them on the radar of colleges, boosters and corporate sponsors. This is an out-of-control system where fourteen year olds have agents and social-media agendas. Education be damned!

This is not widespread yet but the same thing is happening in Texas, California and Georgia to a higher degree than say Ohio and Pennsylvania. There are many more four and five star recruits in the warmer climes and I know for a fact the PA high school transfer rules are much more stringent.

The open enrollment policy in Florida allows parents to send their kids to any public school as long as it has room and they provide the transportation. They must prove they are leaving an underperforming school which doesn't necessarily mean education. If the football team had a 2-9 record and another school was 10-1, that's considered underperforming in Florida.

The state of Florida allows NIL money for legitimate work. The athletes are required to disclose their NIL deals but seldom does this happen. If they do disclose there are no rules that require them to report how much and with what company. I always thought Florida was a mess!

This all comes down to the parents thinking that their kids are an opportunity away from being a star. The parents are delusional and most do not realize that only about 2% of high-school athletes nationally go on to play at the Division 1 level.

All of this transferring for a better opportunity or more money at both the college and high-school levels has moral implications. It doesn't teach them the mindset to persevere. When they become adults, will they be able to face the hurdles that exist in the real world?

Double-Lung Transplant Recipient Inspires Community

By Jamiee Joiner

At first glance, Amanda Eisenhauer looks like any other healthy young woman. You might pass her while running errands in town, see her heading to work, or catch her pacing herself during a local 5K. But the 40-year-old Selinsgrove resident is living a life that is anything but ordinary. Diagnosed with cystic fibrosis at birth, Amanda is a double-lung transplant recipient who has grabbed life by the horns and never looked back.

Amanda recently celebrated her ten-year “lungiversary”, a decade thriving with a new set of lungs that have allowed her to inspire not just the young athletes she mentors, but an entire community.

To look at her today, you would never guess the battles she has fought. Amanda has never sought attention or recognition, often keeping the quiet, grueling struggle of her fight to breathe entirely to herself.

Amanda and two of her siblings were born with cystic fibrosis, a genetic disease caused by a mutation that primarily attacks the lungs and digestive system. From a young age, all three siblings faced severe medical challenges.

As a student, Amanda chose to hide her diagnosis, quietly suffering through tough gym classes and missing school when her condition flared up. Despite the interruptions, she maintained excellent grades, played sports, participated in the school band, and eventually graduated from Selinsgrove Area High School.

Unfortunately, her condition began to deteriorate sharply shortly after graduation. Continuous medical hurdles have plagued her life, but Amanda greets every day with a positive mindset. The systemic toll of cystic fibrosis has left her managing digestive issues, sinus problems, liver complications from intravenous medications, pancreas infections, and diabetes which she manages with a wearable insulin pump.

Despite these massive hurdles, Amanda remains fiercely goal oriented. She found a deeply supportive community through the Girls on the Run (GOTR) program, which she initially discovered when her youngest sister, Hannah, joined the team.

Inspired by her sister’s determination, Amanda participated in her very first GOTR 5K in a wheelchair while hooked up to an oxygen tank. She recalls that the day was bitterly cold, causing her oxygen tank to repeatedly freeze up along the course. Yet, she pushed through. As they approached the finish line, Amanda asked if she could stand up and walk across which was a monumental physical challenge at the time. She did it, and that pivotal moment hooked her on the program for life.

Now a coach, Amanda passes that same grit down to the next generation. She recalls a particularly chilly, rainy morning during a 5K at The Miller Center in Lewisburg. (An event I remember well, as I was standing in that same rain taking photos for the newspaper).

“A little girl from Milton was struggling, carrying her stuff, and looking like she was about to give up,” Amanda shared. “I got alongside her and started encouraging her to keep moving forward. I told her, ‘Let’s just make it to that tree.’ Then, when we got there, I’d say, ‘Let’s get to that street sign.’ Breaking it down into smaller goals helped her focus on the bigger achievement of finishing. I was pushing her, but I was also pushing myself that day. We helped each other.”

Cheryl Stumpf, now an Advisory Board Member and volunteer for GOTR of Mid State PA but who was the founder of the Greater Susquehanna Valley council of Girls on the Run, praised Amanda’s fierce fortitude. “She always has hope and positivity getting to the next step of life,” Stumpf said. “Amanda is touching lives in incredibly important ways.”

Amanda credits her progress to her deep faith in God, her family, her friends, and her boyfriend of fourteen years. When she needs to clear her head and focus her thoughts, she jokes that her best “thinking spot” is a long, hot shower.

There are plenty of bright spots on Amanda’s horizon. She is excited to begin a new chapter as a paraprofessional in the Line Mountain School District, where she hopes to inspire her classroom students just as deeply as she does her runners. She plans to continue all the simple things in life that bring her joy including sitting outside with her dogs, enjoying the sun, camping, hiking, crocheting all types of things, and attending fairs.

Reflecting on her lifelong battle with cystic fibrosis, Amanda offers a powerful perspective: “It doesn’t define you. It’s what you have, but not who you are. It’s just a little bump in the road. You can still follow your dreams and do exactly what you want.”

To assist Amanda with her ongoing medical expenses, donations can be made to the Children’s Organ Transplant Association (COTA). COTA helps offset her extensive travel expenses including gas, lodging, and meals as well as the vital medications she receives during her treatments at UPMC Presbyterian Hospital in Pittsburgh. SUN Tech Students Drive Community Support, Donate $837 to Local Veterans

Student Volunteers present a check for $837 to the Mifflinburg American Legion Post 410 from the 2 Annual SUN Tech Cruise In.

New Berlin, PA - Students at SUN Area Technical Institute (SUN Tech) recently presented the Mifflinburg American Legion Post 410 with a donation of $837 to help support local veterans and their families in need.

The donation represents half of the proceeds raised during SUN Tech's 2nd Annual Cruise-In, held on March 28. The event attracted more than 200 vehicles and numerous community members, making it another successful year for the growing tradition.

"The SUN Tech Cruise-In began in 2025 through a collaboration between the Council of Presidents—our student leadership group made up of the presidents and vice presidents from each of SUN Tech's 19 programs—and our Collision Repair Program," said Wendy Chalmers, advisor to the Council of Presidents. "One of our goals is to teach students the importance of giving back to their community. Our students and staff are passionate about recognizing and supporting local veterans, and this event is one way we accomplish that mission."

Since its inception, the Cruise-In has continued to grow in both attendance and impact.

"In 2025, we raised $1,300 during our first Cruise-In," said Jon Reeder, SUN Tech Collision Repair Instructor, who has played a key role in organizing the event. "This year, we raised more than $1,600 to support local veterans. We are grateful for the incredible support from participants, sponsors, and community members who helped make this event such a success."

Funds are raised entirely through voluntary donations from participants and attendees. There is no registration fee or pre-registration required to attend or display a vehicle.

Planning is already underway for next year's Cruise-In, which is scheduled for Saturday, March 27, 2027.

The American Legion Family includes programs for veterans, spouses, children, and grandchildren of veterans through organizations such as the American Legion Auxiliary and the Sons of the American Legion (SAL). For more information about eligibility and membership opportunities, contact your local American Legion post.

Health Career Classes at SUN Tech Learn About Elder Abuse Prevention

By Kay Poeth

The check was accepted by Nevin and Lynn Fiedler on behalf of Journey to Justice. We appreciate "their generosity, kindness, and desire to help in preventing elder abuse."

Students in the Health Career programs at the SUN Area Technical Institute in New Berlin recently learned about elder abuse prevention. Instructor Robin Harvey invited Journey to Justice to present a program for the students. They have shared their training, "Dementia and Abuse Prevention: How can YOU Make a Difference?" for the past two years in these classes.

This year, each student purchased Journey to Justice shirts and did dress down days all throughout this school year wearing their shirts! On May 19, 2026, they donated the entire year of collections to the 501 (c)(3) tax-exempt local non-profit organization, Journey to Justice, whose mission is to protect older adults through advocacy, education, and awareness.

"These students graduated the day after this picture was taken and are going on to further studies in the health career arena. The future looks bright! Shout out to all of them and their fabulous, top-notch instructors! Now, go out and do good things! Congrats to all! It was our honor to be a small part of your training!" said Lynn Fiedler.

Final Step of Essentials Training

Congratulations to the members of the Fremont Fire Department who completed the final step of Essentials training and successfully finished their live burn evolutions this evening at the HACC.

Members from Fremont Fire Department, Freeburg Volunteer Fire Company, Port Trevorton Fire Company, Millerstown Fire Department, Thompsonstown Volunteer Fire Company and Fayette Fire Company demonstrated what hard work, dedication, and determination can achieve. Their commitment to training and improving their skills was on full display throughout the evening.

These members will be testing for their Firefighter I certification in the coming weeks, marking the completion of the first major step in their firefighting careers. We wish them the best of luck as they prepare for this important milestone.

On behalf of the Fremont Fire Department, I would also like to thank all of the mutual aid departments and instructors who participated and helped make this training a success. Your support, teamwork, and commitment to the fire service made for a great evening of training and learning.

Congratulations to all involved, and thank you for your dedication to serving our communities.

Precision Metalworking Builds the Foundation of Modern Industry

By Kay Poeth and Benjamin Detwiler

Wyatt Yohe working on his National Institute of Metalworking Skills Manual Milling certification on a milling machine.

Cameron Walter making a project on the engine lathe.

SUN Area Technical Institute is “Training Today’s Students for Tomorrow’s Jobs...in 19 Different Skills.” Precision Metalworking is one of those programs.

Precision Metalworking is a hands on career and technical program that prepares students for one of the most essential roles in modern manufacturing.

According to instructor Benjamin Detwiler, the course focuses on milling, turning, grinding, sawing, drilling, measurement, and computer numerical control (CNC) machining.

“Machining is behind almost every industry,” Detwiler explained. “It’s the process of making things out of metal and other materials.” Students learn to set up and operate machines that fabricate and repair parts, transforming raw metal blocks into intricate components such as gears, sprockets, pistons, tools, wheels, and molds. Those parts ultimately become essential pieces of cars, bicycles, and the machinery that produces countless manufactured goods.

Machinists play a critical role across all industries. Without them, manufacturing and construction would not exist. In fact, machinists are uniquely skilled in their ability to create or reproduce the very tools they use—a testament to the precision and expertise the trade requires. As a result, Precision Metalworking students are highly sought after by local employers and consistently achieve some of the school’s highest job placement rates. Many graduates also continue their education in engineering and related fields.

Students in the program participate in a full day learning environment designed to fullyimmerse them in the trade. During their senior year, instruction begins with hand tools and precision measurement, establishing the foundation for advanced technical work. As students progress, they gain experience in lathe and mill setup, grinding, drill press operations, CNC machining, and laser engraving. Throughout the program, they follow detailed blueprints to produce parts that meet exact specifications.

The program is growing as people understand more about the important skills student learn. “I don’t think that the community understood what the program was all about. After touring the program and students gaining employment, the program is gaining in popularity,” noted Detwiler. “The biggest thing is students talking to other students about their jobs after participating in the program.”

In addition to technical training, students apply their skills through school projects, personal builds, and community service initiatives.These real world experiences ensure graduates leave not only with strong theoretical knowledge but also with practical, job ready skills that distinguish them in the workforce.

Kace Hollenbach of Midd-West has enjoyed the tactile component of the program. “I like that we get to work with our hands and run machines, learn how to program the machines to run by themselves. We also designed leather hat patches that are key pressed onto a hat. Then, we sell them at a profit for our class.”

For students planning to further their education, SUN Tech offers a dual enrollment agreement with Pennsylvania College of Technology, enabling participants to earn up to eight college credits by the end of their senior year. Students also have the opportunity to earn industry recognized credentials, including National Institute of Metalworking Skills (NIMS) certifications and Haas Operator certifications, which significantly enhance their appeal to employers.

The program’s success is driven by strong partnerships with local industry leaders and a commitment to aligning instruction with workforce needs. Precision Metalworking works closely with an Occupational Advisory Committee and provides cooperative education opportunities through partnerships with companies such as PMF Industries, Brake Technique, QE Manufacturing, HyMac, TPS, and Top Notch Machining. These collaborations offer students valuable real world experience and create direct

Rep. David Rowe (R-85) visited SUN Area Technical Institute to mark Career and Technical Education month. “I am always so impressed with the work ethic and dedication of these students and their teachers! We are so fortunate to have top-notch institutions like these in our backyard!”

Then, Rep. Rowe added, “It’s no secret that Pennsylvania is facing a skilled workforce shortage, with only two qualified workers available to fill every three job openings. Institutions like SUN-Tech are filling a critical role by training up the next generation of American workers to fill those job openings and pursue a path to a family-sustaining career. I am always grateful for the opportunity to visit SUN-Tech and meet the hardworking teachers and their impressive students!”

100,000 Live Stakes to be Planted to Expand Riparian Forest Buffers

Susquehanna University and Chesapeake Conservancy announced that 100,000 live stakes have been collected by the Live Stake Collaborative for planting along streamside forest buffer restoration projects in Pennsylvania. This milestone, which equates to almost 40 acres of streamside planting, is a culmination of seven years of collaboration with partners across Pennsylvania.

Live stakes are branch cuttings from wetland tree and shrub species that can be readily planted into the ground alongside streams. These plantings can stabilize stream banks, prevent sediment erosion and run-off, filter nutrients and support local wildlife habitat.

First founded in 2019, the Live Stake Collaborative was formed by Chesapeake Conservancy, Susquehanna University, the Pennsylvania Department of Conservation and Natural Resources (PA DCNR), Merrill W. Linn Land and Waterways Conservancy and Bucknell University to provide free plant material to partners to restore ecosystem and stream health. Since then, local partners have joined the collaborative or shown their support, including Juniata College, Clearwater Conservancy, Huntington County Conservation District, Union County Conservation District, Snyder County Conservation District and the Penns Valley Conservation Association. This work has been financially supported over the years by the National Fish and Wildlife Foundation, the Hamer Foundation, the 1994 Charles B. Degenstein Foundation, Foundation for Pennsylvania Watersheds and PA DCNR.

To further support the partnership, Chesapeake Conservancy has employed a live stake coordinator, typically staffed by a CORE Susquehanna AmeriCorps member in a year-long term. In addition, Susquehanna University has greatly supported the effort through on-site live stake storage and student participation. Each semester, Susquehanna University students across all majors earn class credit and volunteer hours by attending stake collection events. This engagement, bolstered by Chesapeake Conservancy student internships, creates a constant stream of University-supported efforts in collecting, transporting and planting live stakes.

With rigorous partnership support and a strong volunteer network, the Live Stake Collaborative has engaged over 1,000 volunteers, logged more than 3,800 volunteer hours and hosted 129 events. The collaborative has seen significant success over the years, with substantial buffer growth at many planting sites.

The Live Stake Collaborative has expanded its efforts by providing training to organizations in Maryland who are developing their own live stake programs through partnership with the Climate Crew Network, a joint partnership between Chesapeake Conservancy and the Greater Baltimore Wilderness Coalition. Based out of Baltimore, the Climate Crew Network provides job seekers with green job training, field experience and industry exposure. Additionally, the Live Stake Collaborative offered support and resources to partners through a full program StoryMap and Tree and Shrub Identification Guide for Live Stake Harvesting.

“The live stake program has a direct impact on local streams, surrounding communities and the Chesapeake Bay watershed. When you improve the health of a tributary, you’re also providing downstream benefits to everyone along the waterway,” said Michaela Rolecki, Chesapeake Conservancy’s volunteer coordinator and 2025 Susquehanna University graduate. “We’re grateful for the many partners and volunteers who have supported this effort. The Live Stake Collaborative is an ambitious group, and we’re already shooting for our next goal – 200,000 live stakes.” In addition to her role with Chesapeake Conservancy, Rolecki has also established a monarch butterfly waystation and pollinator garden on the campus of Susquehanna University.

If you're interested in getting involved with the live staking initiative in any capacity, please contact Michaela Rolecki at mrolecki@chesapeakeconservancy.org.

Renovations to Selinsgrove Borough Police Department Building Improve Layout

By Kay Poeth

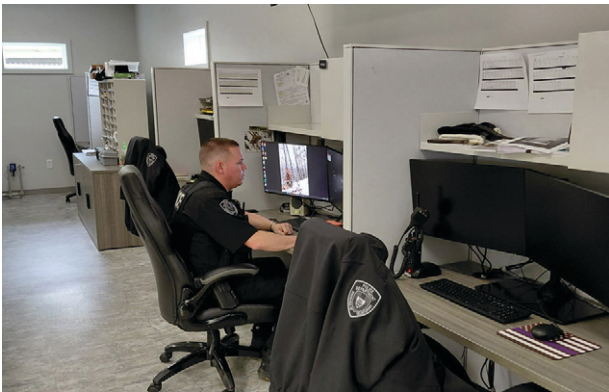

During daytime hours, visitors will be greeted by Chele’ Weaver, Administrative Assistant.

The renovations to the Selinsgrove Police Department’s building have improved the layout, upgraded technology and work stations, created additional rooms, and brightened the overall appearance of the inside Although the footprint of the building has remained the same, the reconfiguration of the layout created a more efficient use of the space.

On a recent tour of the renovated building, Chief Petrovich explained the new layout. To enter the building during daytime hours, just walk in. After 3 pm, visitors must buzz the door. To call the non-emergency line, phone 570-372-0826.

During daytime hours, visitors will be greeted by Chele’ Weaver, Administrative Assistant. Her office area consists of a desk, computer, filing cabinets, and shelving for informational records. On the wall to enter the PatrolArea is a striking mural of the current police department patch created by Bob Baker, father of Officer Chris Baker.

Visitors enter the waiting room/lobby that is furnished with two chairs and a table. The walls are painted a light gray with lighter flooring with a brighter and a more welcoming appeal. There is also a bathroom in the lobby for visitor use. To the right, is a Calming Room to be used for children, domestic violence victims, and individuals with special needs or requirements. The window blinds can be closed to protect privacy. A white noise machine and calming toys such as fidgetshelp to reduce stress and are provided in the room.

The Patrol Area features a work space for each officer with a computer and dual monitors.

Next is the Interview Room which contains an area for the officer to take notes and a spot for the person being interrogated.

The Patrol Area is wide-open space with a conference table in the center for departmental meetings. Each officer has their own work station with computers and dual monitors. There is surveillance monitor to view the Holding Room, another surveillance monitor of the Selinsgrove School District & Susquehanna University in case of emergencies, and a TV used for training purposes.

The Holding Room is located directly off the Patrol Room. The surveillance camera ensures safety and that the officers can prepare paperwork without being seen or turning their back on the person in custody.

The Chief’s Office is the same size as before with the entry door moved to open into the Patrol Area. In addition to his desk, there are cabinets for files. Chief Petrovich is the only one to have the password to the surveillance system monitoring SASD and SU in case of emergency. The monitor runs non-stop but is only viewed in emergencies.

The back of the building house the full bathroom with a toilet, wash basin, shower and lockers. The lockers were generously donated by D.B. Construction. A fully functional kitchen is the final renovated space. It includes a refrigerator, microwave, sink, and a designated seating space so officers do not have to eat at their desks. The kitchen cabinets were donated by D.B. Construction and made by Stanley Martin of Port Trevorton. The countertops were purchased from Shade Mountain Granite.

The renovation was completed by D.B. Construction of Selinsgrove with Dave Bowersox as general contractor on the project. Other subcontractors included Paige Electrical, and Fike Bros. Carpet One Floor & Home.

According to Chief Petrovich, “The purpose of the renovation was to improve the patrol officers’ work space allowing each officer to maintain their own area with dual monitors to improve report writing and daily activities.” Other improvements included the Calm Room, Holding Room, full bathroom, as well as a functioning kitchen.

The Selinsgrove Borough Council recently hired Officer Ayram Colon Rivera who will start on June 23, 2026. He is an active soldier of the Army Reserve. He will be trained by senior officers.

“Currently, we are providing the best coverage we can with the manpower that we have available,” notes Chief Petrovich.

After Officer Rivera completes his training, the department will be fully staffed. The five full-time officers will be Sgt. Scott Grove, Officer Chris Baker, Officer Greg Hoffman, Officer Alan Lynn and Officer Rivera. The department is overseen by Chief Francis Petrovich. Chele’ Weaver is the department’s Administrative Assistant.

“Once the Field Training Officer Program (FTO) by Rivera is completed, the Department will provide coverage 7 day/week with only 4 hours in that time period with no coverage,” adds Chief Petrovich.

“It ultimately boosts the Department’s morale knowing that we have the support and respect of the Borough Council,” said Chief Petrovich. “We appreciate their willingness to make these necessary improvements.”

Scout Earns Eagle Award

Conor Moyer Necessary received the highest award in Scouting, the Eagle Scout Award, in a ceremony at VFW Post 6631, Selinsgrove, PA.

Conor’s parents are Jeffery and Heather Necessary. His grandparents are John and Kathy Van Buskirk and Frederick and Regina Moyer. He has a brother, Lane, also a member of Troop 419.

Conor began his scouting career when he joined Cub Pack 3419 in Selinsgrove. There he earned the highest Cub Scout award, the Arrow of Light. In March of 2019, Conor crossed over to Boy Scout Troop 419. Since joining Troop 419 Conor has attended summer camp at Camp Karoondinha three years. There he was elected to the Order of the Arrow by his fellow scouts and passed his ordeal in 2024. In November of 2022 he biked fifty-three miles on the Pine Creek Trail thereby earning his Fifty Mile Biker Award.

Conor held the following positions of responsibility: Bugler, Assistant Patrol Leader, Patrol Leader, Scribe, Historian, and Webmaster. He passed BSA Leadership Training and earned the NOA Camping Award. Conor camped out a total of forty-eight nights and hiked seventy-seven miles while a member of Troop 419.

Conor was very active in service to his community. He participated in twenty-five different service projects for a total sixty-nine hours. In completing his Eagle requirements, he earned a total of thirty-eight merit badges.

Conor’s Eagle Scout project involved the restoration and repair of many areas around the Kidsgrove Playground in Selinsgrove. This included replacing missing and broken split rails in the fence, replacing the roof of the front bulletin board, replacing the roof of the train station, and installing three new activity panels in the playground.

Twelve workers helped with the project, for a total of 98.5 hours. Some additional help was given by scout leader Richard “Doc” Sheaffer, who donated the roof shingles, and Adam Bush of Bush Construction, who helped out greatly by buying extra building materials and helping to repair both roofs. Conor’s dad helped plan the construction part of the project and helped with a many of the repairs.

Outside of scouting, Conor is a member of the Selinsgrove High School Marching Band, playing bass guitar; a member of the school’s newspaper club, called the Grove Gazette, and he started his own four-piece rock band outside of school, called Lizard Hammer, in which he plays guitar and sing backup vocals.

Conor’s future plans are to go to college for a Bachelor’s Degree in Graphic Design. He has already been accepted into the Pennsylvania College of Technology in Williamsport, PA. After college, he plans to start his own graphic design and photography business, or become a luthier to design and build guitars and basses. His parents had a photography business, called Blue Dog Imaging, where he learned camera and lighting skills, so he would like to somewhat follow in their footsteps.

Conor is the 119th Eagle Scout from Troop 419.

Kratzerville Volunteer Fire Company Celebrated 75 Years of Service to the Community

By Kay Poeth

Dee Hollenbach, Sen. Lynda Schlegel Culver, Kratzerville Fire Chief Frank Long, Snyder County Commissioner Joe Kantz, and Snyder County Commissioner Chuck Steining stand in front of the Kratzerville Volunteer Fire Company

Area residents came out in support of the Kratzerville Volunteer Fire Company’s 75th Years of Service to the Community. In addition to the 75th Celebration, the four-hour event featured Community Day. Many neighbors and friends, former firefighters, and local fire companies attended the milestone festivities.

Congratulations to Kratzerville Fire Company! It’s great to see a volunteer organization thrive in an era where some are struggling to find volunteers. Kratzerville is just that kind of community where everyone pitches in and supports one another when there is a need,” noted Snyder County Commissioner Joe Kantz. “It’s why most of us choose to live in Snyder County. It’s part of what makes living in this area so special. I hope they continue to thrive for the next 75 years.”

Proudly on display were several Kratzerville Volunteer Fire Company trucks and apparatus. They were joined by local fire companies including New Berlin, Hummels Wharf, DH&L Fire and Ambulance, and Kreamer. There were even interactive fire demonstrations.

Adding to the exhibits were Hackenburg’s Garage and Towing with a wrecker as well as local organizations such as Kratzerville Boy Scouts, Kratzerville Girl Scouts, Selinsgrove Little League, Fry’s Fire Protection, and the Dairy Princess. Of course, there were food stands, raffles (Patriotic Grill Bundle, Lottery Ticket Bundle and Igloo Cooler Package) and 75th Anniversary goods available for purchase.

The highlights included the first 50 children in attendance received a free bag filled with gifts. The DH&L aerial truck provided bucketrides in the lift and a breathtaking view not many have the opportunity to experience. (Chuck Steining prefers to keep his feet on the ground.) A race car exhibit and a large inflatable slide shaped like a fire truck mesmerized the children and some adults were also spotted zipping down the inflatable slide! Smokey Bear even posed for photos and gave high 5’s.

Dignitaries included State Sen. Lynda Schlegel Culver and Snyder County Commissioners Joe Kantz and Chuck Steining, Fire Chief Frank Long plus all the local firefighters. At noon, the short ceremony began with the Kratzerville Boy Scouts playing the National Anthem. Chuck Steining, Chief Emeritus and Chaplin of the fire company, presented a history about the fire company. The fire company was also presented several citations from legislative dignitaries.

The Snyder County Commissioners sent a congratulatory letter to the fire company. In part it stated, “For three-quarters of a century, your company has stood as a beacon of safety, selflessness, and community pride. Since your journey began on February 5, 1951, your organization has steadily evolved to meet the needs of our citizens. From the early days of converting Fisher’s Dance Hall and acquiring your first fire trucks in 1951, to the iconic 1941 American LaFrance in 1956, your department has always prioritized reliable protection.

“Your legacy is defined not just by firefighting, but by an unwavering commitment to community wellness. This was beautifully demonstrated in 1964 with the addition of recreational courts for the local youth, and again in 1981 with the opening of your new Fire Station. As technology advanced, so did your capabilities, marked by the addition of the 1972 Chevy/Hahn, the 1994 Freightliner, and the 2011 International trucks. Notably, the launch of your Quick Response Service in 1988 revolutionized local medical response, cutting vital minutes when seconds mattered most.

“Behind every milestone and every emergency call are generations of brave volunteers who have selflessly left their families to protect ours. Seventy-five years of unbroken volunteer service is an extraordinary achievement that represents the absolute best of Snyder County.”

Fun and Festive Hillbilly Fever Days

By Kay Poeth

Area residents enjoyed the performance of 50’s & 60’s hits by Richie and the High Street Rockers on Friday night. Richie strolled out into the audience during several numbers adding a personal touch and even posed for photos with fans. Just ask Roxanne Kerstetter.

Possum Hollow Park was the scene of fun-filled festivities during Hillbilly Fever Days. Hillbilly Fever Days featured a stellar line-up of entertainment including Nicks in Time, Veltetta, and Richie & the High Street Rockers. The final night of the carnival concluded with the popular Mahoney Brothers taking the stage for two sets, California Sound and The Beatles. The Mahoney Brothers have been performing at Hillbilly Fever Days for 24 years. In addition to all the scrumptious fair food, the crowd enjoyed shopping at vendor booths, playing various games especially the Cake Wheel, and pony rides for the children.

Snyder County Recovery Symposium

By Kay Poeth

Approximately 80 people attended the Snyder County Recovery Symposium hosted by Walking Free Clubhouse, North Central PA Recovery Hub and CMSU Behavioral Health & Developmental Services on April 18. The Symposium focused on fostering collaboration, sharing knowledge, and exploring approaches to substance recovery within our communities.

Lorie Kurrell, Director of Walking Free Clubhouse noted, “The Recovery Symposium was about the community coming together. We came together Saturday to fight against the stigma surrounding addiction and to promote the education and awareness surrounding substance abuse and recovery. The alcoholic or addict cannot recover alone. The family member cannot recover alone. It takes support...it takes community. It is about coming together to support the recovery community. Together we can recover! Alone we drown!”

This presentation, delivered by William Stauffer of the Pennsylvania Recovery Organizations Alliance, outlined the evolution of the recovery movement from its grassroots origins to a modern, evidence-based advocacy powerhouse. It highlighted the “rebirth” of the movement in the late 1990s, which shifted the national focus from clinical pathology to community-driven recovery and long-term sustainability. Key milestones discussed include the 2002 Saint Paul summit and the development of a “Recovery Bill of Responsibilities” to ensure ethical stewardship for future generations. Ultimately, the training calls for a “new frontier” in research that prioritizes recovery management and diverse pathways to help more individuals achieve five-year sustained recovery.

In addition to the keynote speaker, different topics addressed during the event included The New Recovery Movement, Recovery Panel, Panel Q&A, Naloxone Education Family Support, Café Conversations, and Recovery Champions Awards. 25 organizations with resource tables from all facets of the recovery movement lined the hall to guide attendees to get the help they need.

According to Kurrell, “The Symposium provided education on the recovery resource centers. But it also gave the perspective of treatment providers, a family member, a person on Medicated Assisted Treatment, and two people in recovery (during the panel discussion). The Café questions gathered information about resources and needs in our community.”

Some takeaways were “Connection is important. Connection is the key!”, “Don’t give up on yourself. You are worth it.”, and advice to family members dealing with addiction or recovery, “Run, don’t walk to find support for you and your family members. Each family member deals with how addiction affects the family in their own way. But talk to each other about it.”
